If the goods don't look appetizing, they simply won't sell; moreover, they must have the look always associated with the especial article, or fancy turns against them. Does color have a similar hold in the matter of lead pencils? From time out of mind lead, pencils have been made out of red cedar, and nothing but a red cedar case, somehow, seems to guarantee a lead pencil's being worth while. Of course, there are people who have a fancy for lead pencils that match the furnishings, and then it's all one to them what the pencil is made of, so long as it has the right cost of paint on the outside—pencils yellow, blue, red, even pink, get some patronage; but from the business point of view—and that is what counts in the making and seiling of lead pencils—the red cedar hue is the popular looks. The United States government, however, is about to beg of the people that they should put away any preconceived noshould put away any preconceived no ifon as to how a pencil outht to look and to take kindly to the pencil made of yellow cedar, which looks whitish, —If once the yellow cedar pencil gets upon the market.

This is the situation. Uncle Sam

This is the situation. Uncle Sam owns millions of acres of rich timber land in the Northwest, on which stands much timber of mature agedr and pine and Alaska cedar. It needs cutting, because it is ripe and on its way to deterioration. It ought to be out and young trees in. But there is yet no demand for the faraway pine and fir, when private holdings nearer at hand are equal to supplying the demand. Pencil cedar, however, that has yearly been supplied from southern forests by the millions of feet, is disappearing at an alarming rate and a substitute has simply got to be found. The common western cedar, red in color, is too coarse grained and soft. The Alaska cedar under the control of the national forest reserve is believed to be solid enough in texture and soft enough in unality to answer ways results. forest reserve is believed to be solid enough in texture and soft enough in quality to answer every requirement of the pencil manufacurers. The matter is to be laid before them; but when they consider it, they will also ask, will the people buy pencils made of white wood? Custom's hold is hard to head. But what the people was the people with the pe to break. But what the people muthey will.—New Bedford Standard.

Warning in Will Against Sin of Idle- | When the "New" Moon First Becomes Visible. ness-

A striking appeal to rich young men not to allow their wealth to tempt them into habits of loading and idleness is made by the late Lieutenant Colonel Edward Tufnell in his will, disposing of estate valued at £343,624 gross and net personality £102,198, states the London Express.

Colonel Tufnell, who had residences in Eaton square, at the Grove, Wimbledon park and Crowhurst park. Sussex, was unionist M. P. for Southeast Sussex from 1900 to 1995, and was formerly a member of the king's body-guard. The appeal against loafing is made in the following remarkable clause in his will:

"I desire to bring home to the minds."

I desire to bring home to the minds "I desire to bring home to the minds of my sons, and of each and every young man who may hereafter take benefit in my property under this, my will, how strongly I hold to the view that every man should, during some substantial portion of his life, and cer-tainty during his cash, which has tainly during his early manhood, have some definite occupation, and lend a useful life and should not suffer wealth or other temptation to tempt him into ess existence

"I might have so framed this, my will, as to have made idleness operate to forfeit the interests hereby conferto forfeit the interests hereby conferred on by sons or other young men in my property, but I foresee that such a provision might in certain cases, work hardships, and I prefer to hope and to trust, as I do, that no son of mine and no other young man who may under this, my will, succeed to the enjoyment of any property of mine, will so dierregard my views herein expressed as to lead the life I so strongly deprecate."

Colonel Tufnell himself always led a strenuous life. He saw active service in the Nile expedition of 1884-85, when serving in the Eighteenth Royal Irish serving in the Eighteenth Royal Irish

The "new" moon at its newest is invisible to us, the illuminated side being entirely turned away, and a discussion has arisen among certain astronomers as to the earliest age at which it shows its slender crescent. The matter ap-pears to have some degree of impor-tance, as in Mohammedan countries the month for religious purposes is said to begin when the moon first appears after sunset to two good wit-

A lady's statement that on May 29 she saw the crescent when only thirty-nine and one-half hours old lias brought out the old record of Kepler that he saw the old moon in the morning and the new moon in the evening of the same day, so that the crescent could not have been more than eight. hours old. Kepler, however, was gifted with such unusual eyesight that he could count fourteen stars in the Pielades instead of the six ordinarily

An observer in Belgium who questioned the accuracy of the Kepler rec-ord saw the new moon on Nov. 22, 1889, when it was only eighteen hours and twenty-two minutes old, and in Great Britain W. F. Denning, F. R. A. S., saw it on March 20, 1881, when only twenty hours and thirty-eight only twenty hours and thirty-eight minutes old.

It is pointed out that time and place must affect the observations and that the clear winter sky is more favorable for seeing the crescent early than the brighter sky of summer twilight.

Had One Admirer.

Pasted on the cover of one library copy of a certain 1993 novel is a circulation record that causes profound wonderment. The book has been taken out of the library 14 times in all: 12 times on the same card. That remarkable record is a matter for serious speculation. How could a book of that caliber convey to any soul a message so tremendous that a dozen readings were desired? By the average reader and by critics it would be considered a commonplace book. When published it created no discussion, made no impression.

There has been no skipping in read-made no impression.

There has been no skipping in reading that book. It has been read carefully from cover to cover; every page shows signs of usage. These very evidences of absorption bear eloquent testimony to the interest the story evoked in its one devoted reader. If it were another kind of book, a scientific treatise, or a textbook of some kind, it would be conceivable that a student might wish to take it home 12 different times to pore over it for a athlefit might wish to take a holds in different times to pore over it for a month at a stretch, but how can a trite, threadbare little nevel so stir a human soul? Verily, here is another mystery past finding out.— N. Y.

The Speedy Mauretania.

We have not heard the last of the Mauretania's great steaming powers and performances. Toward the end and performances. Toward the end of the year, when the passenger season slackens down, the Mauretania will go into dry dock and be fitted with new propellers designed at Wallsend and specially intended to utilize sond and specially intended to utilize the vessel's reserve of engine power which has not yet been called into the trail play. The propellers are similar to those which have recently been fitted to the Lusitania, and with such good results that the vessel immediately broke the record. The Mauretania, however, soon responded, and went one better, even with her old propellers. With the new ones, when litted, it is naturally expected that she will do still better. Indeed the builders and engineers of the Mauretania unticipate making her a 28-knot ship at the least, for her special advantages in design and engine power will be brought out to their full capacity.—The Mariner.

Why Physicians Recommend Castoria

ASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First-The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second-That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third-It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system-not by stupefying it-and our readers are entitled to the information. - Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians Addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher. Dr. W. L. Leister, of Rogers,

Ark., says : " As a practicing physician I use Castoria and like it very much."

Dr. W. T. Seeley, of Amity, N. Y., says : "I have used your Castoria for several years in my practice and have found it a safe and reliable remedy."

Or. Raymond M. Evarts, of Santa Ynez, Cal., says: "After using your Castoria for children for years it annoys me greatly to have an ignorant druggist substitute something else, especially to the patient's disadvantage, as in this case. I enclose herewith the wrapper of the imitation.'

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says : "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

Dr. W. F. Wallace, of Bradford, N. H., says: "I use your Castoria in my practice, and in my family."

dr. Wm. I. McCann of Omaha, Neb., says : " As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. Howard James, of New York, City, says: "It is with great pleasure that I desire to testify to the medicinal virtue of your Castoria. I have used it with marked benefit in the case of my own daughter, and have obtained excellent results from its administration to other children in my practice."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says : "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says : "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says : I prescribe your Castoria extensively as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Channing H. Cook, of Saint Louis, Mo., says: "I have used your Castoria for several years past in my own family and have always found it thoroughly efficient and never objected to by children, which is a great consideration in blessed by the presence of children, view of the fact that most medicines of this character are obnoxious and therefore difficult of administration. As a laxative I mendation of any physician. I consider it the peer of anything that I ever prescribed."

Dr. L. O. Morgan, of So. Amboy, N. J. says: "I prescribe your Castoria every day for children who are suffering from constipation, with better effect than I receive from any other combination of drugs."

Dr. H. J. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. Wm. L. Bosserman, of Buffaio, N. Y., says: "I am pleased to speak a good word for your Castoria. I think so highly of it that I not only recommend it to others, but have used it in my own family."

Dr. F. H. Kyle, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "It affords me pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have used and now endorse your Castoria. The fact of the ingredients being known through the printing of the formula on the wrapper is one good and sufficient reason for the recomknow of its good qualities and recommend it cheerfully."
